The Editor Takes A Look At The Exchanges And Passes Out A Few Bouquets

It's a great pastime—reading the country weekly papers that come to our exchange desk. Enlightening. Entertaining. Some of them sprightly edited. Knowing the various editors as we do, we know each week just about how each paper is going to look. We usually know about what to expect in the line of reading matter.

Over at Moore Haven is one of the keenest writers in Florida. We'd just as soon read what Carr Settle writes as to eat when we're hungry. He starts kicking type way back when he wasn't knee high to a grasshopper. He knows the mechanical end from A to Z and pounds out some mighty interesting stories on that old type-writer of his. His regular weekly column is always interesting. However, last week's was the best in a long time, according to our way of thinking. Carr evidently was in high spirits when he wrote it. You could just see him in every paragraph of that column. No other editor could have written in that Settle style.

Way up at Clermont is another newspaper publisher—Don Lochner—who always gets out an interesting paper. His wise cracks are always good for a laugh. Don is a past master at saying what he thinks. He just doesn't mince words in his editorials. He tells 'em straight from the shoulder—and that always makes interesting reading.

The Wauchula Advocate, published by Mrs. Geo. M. Goolsby, is always neatly printed. Nearly always has eight pages. The Advocate is neat as a pin. You just naturally know that the shop in which it is printed is spotless. We happen to know that it is probably the cleanest newspaper office in the weekly field in Florida.

From Bowling Green comes the Epionet where young Editor Holman edits his newspaper in a building not bigger than a minute but the mechanical work is done in the Herald office in Wauchula. For the past few weeks we've been reading Holman's succinct editorials—due to the fact that he has the county tax list this year and it takes up all available room in an eight page paper. We'll be glad when the tax list is over so we can have the pleasure of reading some more of those short but direct to the point editorials.

We've enjoyed watching the growth of the Port St. Joe Star—started a little over two years ago—it is fast coming to the front as one of the state's interesting weeklies. Editor Smith is located in the heart of the paper manufacturing belt and has a bright future with his paper in those parts. He is another editor who doesn't fail to say what he thinks.

From Estero we get the American Eagle each week. Editor Andrews writes a great deal of tropical flowers and plants. His paper is always a welcome visitor in this office. It's different. It's unusual.

Nate Reetz and his cohorts over at Arcadia get out a dandy paper week in and week out. It is never lacking in any department. Editor Reetz spends a great deal of time on the editorial end and the results are always delightful reading. Now and then he gives somebody the very devil but he has a way of doing it that seems to get by in excellent shape. A splendid newspaper from a splendid town.

Up at Macclenny President of the Florida Press Association Tate Powell, Jr., manufactures his Baker County Press each week. Tate and Editor Roy Child of the Ironsop Journal conduct sort of a mutual admiration column each week. Never a week passes that they don't have something nice to say about each other in their editorials. Tate is a splendid newspaper man and won admiration of all state editors last fall to the point where they made him head of the association. He is doing a good job.

There are many more, of course, in the state. We'll talk about them later.

GONE WITH THE WIND

Time brings some great changes as it tears off the calendar pages, and they are discovered sometimes in a way that is startling and embarrassing. We used to be a hand director, and below the Mason-Dixon line we always tore off that soul-inspiring, blood-rousing and spine-tickling song which won many a hard-fought battle in the Sixties, "Dixie."

Well sir, we surely got caught short at that flag raising at MacDill field in Tampa. As the various flags were fetched forth by the Sons of American Legion, showing the progressive steps whereby our national emblem was formed, the band would play different patriotic songs.

When they romped out on our old favorite, "Dixie," the crowd started to clapping, and always being anxious to show our excessive patriotism, we let loose a squawk that would have made Sitting Bull green with envy. What was our astonishment and the wife's mortification, not a one of those Florida and Georgia crackers made the slightest peep!

One northern lady muttered something about "First drunk she had seen today," another said, "One can't have a solemn occasion like this without somebody getting lit up." One man turned around and said "Do you think you are in Georgia, brother?"

We thought Georgians always cheered "Dixie," and we feel right peeved at that bunch of crackers, who seem to have forgotten their raisins. Has the spirit of the Old South really "Gone With the Wind"?—Lake Wales Highlander.

their target with such deadly accuracy.

It is comforting to the average citizen to know that American armed forces, in personnel and equipment, are abreast of the times and can do the job whatever the job may be. While at present we lack volume in both trained men and equipment, American industry can and will meet that problem while increased appropriations now make possible the upbuilding of all branches of our military service to insure our protection against any foe.

Florida is destined to play an important part in the future of the steady expansion of the military and naval bases being established in the state.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay

Army fliers from MacDill Field, Tampa, a new Army Air Base, staged an egg-ying contest last week that gave Tampans who witnessed it a real thrill.

Taking to the air like a covey of frightened quail, the giant army bombers, flying in formation, zoomed over the city, their motors roaring, circled with the grace of hawks as they climbed six, eight, ten thousand feet.

At the height, invisible to the naked eye, the roar of their motors audible to those on the ground, the fliers sought their target, a 100-foot white circle in which was centered a white pyramid measuring but 20 feet at its base.

1,500 feet away, stationed in observation towers, officers, and enlisted men called the shots and marked them down, keeping in touch with the fliers by portable telephone.

Coming in from all directions at different altitudes, the giant war birds laid their explosive eggs, hile those below, tense with excitement, watched the results.

The bombs, loaded with fluorine, and carrying a light explosion live charge, just enough to give a sharp report and a puff of white smoke, came crashing earthward, whistling and whining as they gained momentum—bam! wham! bam!

As the cloud of dust and smoke lifted, observers, their field glasses trained on the target, sang out the result: "Zero," "Zero," "Zero," "Zero." Checkers repeated after them, "Zero," "Zero," "Zero," "Zero," and made the proper notation on the tally sheets.

To the mind of a layman a "Zero" isn't anything to get excited over. In fact, it simply represents nothing and a layman, but "Zero" is sweet music to a bomber's ears for it denotes a direct hit on the target.

One after another the bombing planes swept into position and released their supply of missiles which came screaming and whistling to earth, some from 10,000 feet, others from 5,000 and 6,000. Hundreds of them were dropped as the planes dived and circled far overhead.

Always the result was the same. The steady call of observers and who of checkers became monotonous—"Zero," "Zero," "Zero," "Zero." "Zero." Not a single shot failed to strike well within that 100-foot circle. Dozens crashed dead on top the center pyramid to register a perfect bull's-eye. And this amazing record was made at the initial practice staged at the new field.

As bomb after bomb struck home with consistent and deadly accuracy, newspaper men and photographers watching the show lost interest. "Zero," "Zero" became a chant. Newsboys yawned, lit cigarettes, wondered if it would rain, guessed they'd be going. It was too monotonous, results too certain. Why, there was nothing to it!

This remarkable performance speaks well for the efficiency of Army training and gives concrete evidence of the value of the Army's new bomb sight with which these planes are equipped and which enables our fliers to cover

THESE THINGS HAPPENED IN THE LAKE REGION 15 YEARS AGO

AND WERE RECORDED BY THE EVERGLADES NEWS

Supervisors of Palm Beach drainage and highway district have sold the district's dredging and ditching equipment to Bryan & Holloway Dredging Company, which has taken a contract to continue the work the supervisors formerly directed.

M. D. Geiger and Miss Anna Griffith, both of Canal Point, were united in marriage Tuesday of last week at Melbourne, his former home. The ceremony was performed at the home of his father, Rev. B. A. Geiger.

A decision favorable to the Town of Pahokee was rendered this week by Hon. C. E. Chillingworth, Palm Beach County, in the case of W. J. Conners, J. K. Poland, and others who sought to have land owned by them withdrawn from the municipality. Under the decision the boundaries of the town remain as originally set by the act of the legislature which created the municipality. Disposal of the suit, enables the people of Pahokee to proceed with plans for public improvements.

Governor Martin and other trustees of the Internal Improvement Fund will come to Pahokee the latter part of this month and pass on the applications of occupants of state land in parts of sections 23 and 24 to purchase from the state the tracts they are in possession of.

This assurance was given last week to C. C. Hull and C. M. Todd, of Pahokee, who visited Tallahassee to urge the trustees to put the land on sale and give priority to purchase to the occupants who have made improvements.

A fish fry at Okeechobee Shores, 17 miles north of Canal Point, given Friday by the Manchester Realty Company, was attended by persons who came in from Lake Wales, Miami, Lake Worth and West Palm Beach as well as from the vicinity of the fry. When the supply of this fish ran out, the visitors were served with pork chops.

Several hundred persons were present. The fish fry was given to attract visitors to the property which is located at Chancy Bay. In the course of the day talks were made to the crowd by Dr. Yarnell and Lake Worth and Howard Ship of Canal Point.

Howard Jensen writing from the Philippines to his mother, Mrs. F. H. Lindrope of Pahokee, says that he likes army life but there is no place like home and the Everglades.

Carl Come and has resigned his job at Hollywood and is now making cane syrup at Kraemer Island.

Dolphus Altman, son of J. Altman who lives north of Canal Point and Miss Annabel Rhymes married Saturday and Sunday at latter part of last week.

Organization of a league of Lake Okeechobee owners, committees to promote the building and connecting up of roads all around the lake and the beautification of the roadway and its illuminaion is proposed by Professor C. M. Todd of Pahokee, who got the idea from a number of similar character organized at Lake City this month.

Members of the Pahokee Woman's Club wish to thank all who were so kind as to give a day's work and those who gave cash donations toward building the club house.

W. R. Shuckard is driving a new Pierce-Arrow sedan which he secured from G. C. Barco of West Palm Beach.

The Bell telephone crew with all equipment for placing poles and wires are now located in South Bay on their way to Fort Myers. If the size of the poles mean anything South Bay will have some telephone line.

When Mrs. Elliott came home from her trip to town, she drove herself home in a new Star sedan. Looks like we expect to have a road.

FULLER'S FULMINATIONS

by Fuller Warren

Frequently, the charge is made that corruption and graft are rife among public officials. This accusation is made by anyone whose words are entitled to much weight or belief. It usually comes from some misinformed fanatic who honestly believes what he is saying or from some unscrupulous scoundrel who is willing to undermine confidence in all officials to get himself elected to office.

This latter type is the worst offender. He goes from stump to stump and from radio station to radio station hysterically about "graft and corruption." He doesn't tell you where it is being done, or who is doing it. He doesn't tell, because he doesn't know. But that is all of a kind of graft. He wants to be elected to office, and he is willing to get there by trying to destroy the people's confidence in all public officials.

To my mind, an office-seeker who makes wild, unsupported, unproved charges of graft and corruption against public officials in general, is not only unpatriotic, but he is almost treasonable. His contemptible and despicable conduct not only weakens the confidence of the people in their public officials, but it has a tendency to undermine confidence in the government; for the officials who administer it are inseparably a part of the government.

Nearly every campaign produces some self-seeking scoundrel who assails the reputation and good name of innocent men in his frantic effort to get himself elected to office. He offers not one whit of proof to support his recurring charges of graft and corruption, but his constant, demagogic repetition of them (Hitler said in "Mein Kampf" that the biggest lie, repeated often enough, would finally be believed) causes a lot of good, well-meaning people to believe the falsehoods he has fabricated for campaign purposes.

It is my purpose to test these charges of graft and corruption by reason, common sense and facts. The very first thing that refutes these charges of graft and corruption is the fact that the person making the charges is never specific, he never gives any details, he doesn't give names, he doesn't point out who is doing the grafting and corrupting, or even where it is going on. He just shouts and hollers, or stily intimates, that graft and corruption are rampant, but he never gives a bill of particulars.

If a person making such charges, usually an office-seeker, or a mentally disordered reformer, knew that graft and corruption were being engaged in by a public official it would be his positive duty to go before the grand jury, the state attorney, or county solicitor, or some official authorized to issue warrants, and make oath to specific knowledge of graft and corruption against such official.

This is just what an honest citizen would do. But the office-seeker, usually the bally reformer, doesn't take this honest action. There are two reasons why they don't. First, their purpose is not to stop graft and corruption so much, it is to get elected to office if he is the office-seeker, or to create a sensation and

What Telephone Dollars Do For Dixie...

First in my mind, perhaps, the telephone is duty's principal contribution to the South is quick, dependable communication.

But Southern Bell is also important as a citizen, as an employer of people, as a payer of taxes, as a purchaser of materials. In 1939 alone, operating expenses amounted to approximately fifty-five million dollars, not including additional millions used for new construction.

To build, operate and maintain this system requires more than twenty-one thousand skilled workers whose annual payroll is approximately thirty million dollars.

These telephone men serve as contributors to the business and social welfare of their communities, and of the South. They and their families compose a group of perhaps eighty thousand people, who are dependent on this business for their livelihood.

As a taxpayer, the Southern Bell does much toward the support of the local, state and national governments. Total taxes last year exceeded nine and three-quarters million dollars, nearly twenty-seven thousand dollars a day.

The Southern Bell Company is a Southern industry in the fullest sense and its activities form a substantial contribution to the growth and prosperity of the South.

attract public favor to himself (it be the reformer) from which he can profit.

I have never known either of these two classes of pests to swear out a warrant for a public official, charging him with graft and corruption. I do know of a few instances where a combination of office-seeker and reformer (mostly office-seekers aware of a few law violators. In several of these cases the charges were dismissed for lack of evidence. In other cases, the office-seeker himself requested that the warrants be withdrawn, and the charges dismissed. (You can draw your own conclusion as to his motives, I have drawn mine.)

Since 1926 I have served two terms in the Legislature, one term as a delegate to the National Democratic Convention, and three terms as a Councilman-at-large of the City of Jacksonville. I have had wide contacts with public officials. I have kept my eyes and ears open. I can, truthfully say that in all that long experience in politics no fact or facts have ever come to my knowledge that have caused me to reach the positive conclusion that any official was grafting. If graft and corruption are so rampant it does seem that I would have come across some of it in fourteen years, doesn't it?

Just in case examples in the two sessions of the Legislature that I served in not more than a total of 5 of the 190 members (two sessions) were even suspected of grafting. I know of only one so suspected in the 1927 Legislature, and not more than four members who were under suspicion of grafting in the 1939 Legislature. And I know of absolutely no FACT in support of this suspicion. It was just rumor around the corridors of the Capitol and the lobbies of the hotels.

Another circumstance that goes to show that public officials do not generally engage in grafting
